SEAHAWK SPOTLIGHT

Seahawks welcome new Cadet Core instructor. Colonel Chris Anderson, who retired from the Air Force in April of this year after 30 years of service. He served in Central America, South America, the Middle East, Europe, and Asia.

Our cadets in the Cadet Core are starting their first full week back to school strong. Cadet Major Bradley Page is our new Cadet Commander. Congratulations to Cadet Major Page! He has been a key leader in building our cadet program for the last two years and he is pushing our cadets with new goals. Our first-year cadets are learning about followership, military ranks, military lingo, and basic drill (marching) maneuvers.

Our second and third-year cadets are showing their leadership skills by planning field trips to nearby military bases, Color Guard events, and even a survival training event on Little St. George Island for this February. All cadets are excited that we will receive our new uniforms in a couple of weeks. Be on the lookout for our cadets marching around campus in their new uniforms when the weather cools some!"
