Franklin County Schools maintains a secular in nature character development program in all the district's elementary schools during school guidance rotation period. School counselors and guidance instructors teach character development in line with the school board adopted character development program. The character development curriculum stresses the qualities of patriotism: responsibility; citizenship; kindness; respect for authority, life, liberty, and personal property; honesty; charity; self-control; racial, ethnic, and religious tolerance; and cooperation. This is facilitated and supplemented through the use of MBF curriculum, drug and alcohol prevention programs and social emotional learning platforms.

Franklin County Schools has embedded patriotism lessons in social studies curriculum across all grade levels K-12. It is taught in social studies K-5, and explicitly in Civics grade 7 and US History grade 8. This is also covered in 9-12 social studies courses, particularly United States History and United States Government courses typically taken in grades 11 and 12. Each November, we conduct a K-12 Veteran's day program and coordinate instruction to honor and teach democratic values in all classes.
